

COVID-19 has forced us to change—to become innovative, to better manage risk, to rethink design, and to even be more productive. Join us for this four-day series (of 90-minute virtual programs) to talk about how we can use the pandemic as a catalyst for change and improvement.

Duane Hughes, President & CEO, Workhorse Group

From The New York Times (Dec. 22, 2020): "A business like Workhorse Group, which employs 130 people and had sales of less than $1 million in the first nine months of the year, would not normally attract much attention on Wall Street. But these are not normal times. Workhorse is aiming to make electric delivery vans. [...] And unlike some of its rivals, Workhorse is not a start-up and has been making small numbers of electric trucks for years."
